GRANDPARENTS RAISING GRANDCHILDREN SUPPORT GROUP

Are you a grandparent responsible for raising your grandchild or the child of a relative? A growing number of grandparents are now taking on the role of parenting their grandchildren.

Studies show that grandparents who cope well with the added stress of raising grandchildren are those who seek out others for support.

The Enfield Grandparents Raising Grandchildren Support Group was created as a safe space for grandparents to benefit from support and resources while they face the joys and challenges of raising their grandchildren.

A confidential environment for sharing experiences and ideas. Speakers and resources on a variety of topics including mental health, education, and raising children in today's world. Information and assistance accessing community supports provided.
